WUTHERING HEIGHTS STOREFRONT

Detailed Production for the Wuthering Heights Storefront

Millennium Signs & Display engineered the subtle details of Bloomingdale's cinematic Wuthering Heights storefront to ensure an immersive experience from every angle.

Working from the original concepts of designer Stefan Beckmann, our production facility built the layered, moody architectural details and prop elements that defined this haunting Manhattan display. This highlights the seamless execution of texture and form that drew in New York shoppers and guided them toward the themed Carousel experience inside.
